

STUDY IN ROMANIA

Romania lies in the Central-South-Eastern part of the European continent. Having a surface of approximately 238,000 sq km and a population of 22.5 million inhabitants, it is one of the medium-sized countries of Europe. Romania neighbours Moldavia, Ukraine, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and coasts the Black Sea.

One of Romania's specifics consists in the fact that it is crossed by the 45 North Parallel and the 25 East Meridian, these being the mathematical co-ordinates marking the halfway between the Equator and the North Pole and between the Atlantic Coast of the Iberian Peninsula and the Eastern border of the continent, the Ural Mountains, respectively. Romania is 2 hours ahead of GMT.

Romanians have an old and rich history. The ancient name of this territory was Dacia. It was inhabited by Getic and Dacian populations. After the wars against Rome, between 101-102 and 105-106, Dacia became a Roman province providing the basis for the formation of both the Romanian people and language.

During the Middle Ages Romanians lived in three provinces, namely Wallachia, Moldavia and Transylvania. These got united during the 19th and 20th c., forming modern Romania.

The population is formed in its biggest proportion by Romanians, who represent 90% of the total number of inhabitants, to which Hungarians (around 7%), Gypsies, Germans, Ukrainians, Turks, Tartars etc. can be added.

Out of the total number of population, 55% live in towns and the rest of 45% live in rural areas (with villages populated by up to 27,000 persons).

The capital of the country is the city of Bucharest, which has a population of over 2 million inhabitants. Here it is concentrated approximately 15% of the national industrial capacity, over 50% of the direct foreign investments, over 30% of the higher education institutions and over 50% of the Romanian students. Other big cities, having more than 300,000 inhabitants, are the regional centres Iasi, Cluj, Timisoara, Craiova, Brasov and Constanta.

Romania is a republic, a parliamentary democracy, seeking to join the European Union.

Romania has economic and cultural relations with over 150 countries around the world.

The official language of the state is Romanian, belonging to the Romance family of languages; within the local public administration, where the percentage of inhabitants belonging to another ethnic populations is over 20%, their language can also be used.

The foreign languages most frequently spoken in the country are English, French and German.

The national currency is the leu (in May, 2004 : 1 USD = 33,155 ROL / 1 Euro = 40,355 ROL).

HISTORY OF EDUCATION

The first institutes of higher education that functioned on the territory of Romania where Academia Vasiliana (1640) founded by prince Vasile Lupu in Iasi as a "higher school for Latin and Slavonic languages" and the Academy of Bucharest opened at the end of the 17th c. by the prince Constantin Brancoveanu.

The bases for higher education in Romanian language were laid down in the 19th c.: courses for topometric engineers organised in 1814 by Gheorghe Asachi in Moldavia and by Gheorghe Lazar in Wallachia in 1818. In 1835 the Academia Mihaileana was set up in Iasi and in 1852 in Bucharest the School of Agriculture was opened, the forerunner of today's Agronomic Institute. In 1857, the National School for Medicine and Surgery was set up in Bucharest and in 1864 the National School for Bridges, Highways, Mining and Architecture was opened to become later the nucleus of the Politechnical School in Bucharest. It was also in 1864 that the foundations of the fine arts higher education were laid down.

The first Romanian universities were established by Prince Al.I.Cuza - the University of Iasi (1860) and the Bucharest University (1864) - under whose rule was issued the first Public Education Law (1864), which regulated the whole system of school education from primary to university education. At the end of the 19th c., following a dramatic development of the educational system, different fields of education were regulated by separate pieces of legislation: the Law of Primary Education (1893), the Law of Secondary and Higher Education (1898), the Law of Vocational Education (1899).

In Transylvania, in 1872, the Cluj University was set up and in Bucovina, the University of Cernauti (1875). After 1918, the Romanian system of education was unitarily regulated by the new laws of organisation of education issued in 1924-1928.

Between the two World Wars the network of higher education institutions was strongly developed.

In 1948, after the onset of the Communist rule, education was organised by the State as a unitary highly centralised structure. Completely separated from the Church, education was accessible to all children. However, due to a structural imbalance, and a chronic lack of material resources, an effect of the economic crisis, the growth of the higher education was inhibited, both in point of technical and material resources - chronically outdated and insufficient - and in point of number of students. In the academic year 1975/1976, there were 42 higher education institutions in 20 university centres, among them being 7 universities: Bucharest, Cluj, Iasi, Timisoara, Craiova, Brasov, Galati, with a total number of 164,567 students.

After the overthrow of the Communist rule in 1989, a major reform was initiated by the higher education institutions themselves. Under the reform programme, the number of students enrolled in the various study programmes available in Romania has been on a constant increase in the last decade, reaching 353,228 for the 1999-2000 academic year. This huge increase is also the result of the introduction of a new opportunity for the Romanian citizens to pursue studies based on tuition fees.

GENERAL DATA ABOUT THE ROMANIAN HIGHER EDUCATION

Legislative Frame

In Romania education is considered to be a national priority, the entire educational system being protected by the Constitution and by organic laws (the Education Law), specialised laws (the Law on the Accreditation of Higher Education Institutions and Recognition of Diplomas, the Law on the Statute of the Teaching Staff), governmental decisions and orders of the Minister of Education and Research.

These legislative acts laid the foundation for the reform of the Romanian education system and allowed its opening and upgrading as compared to the educational systems of the highly developed countries of the world.

The national system, which includes both public and private higher education institutions, has openness as its main feature, that is the transfer of a student from one educational form to the other is stipulated by law. The education system is organised on levels, ensuring the coherence and continuity of instruction, taking into consideration the age and individual peculiarities.

Structure of the Universities

In Romania higher education is provided in education and research institutions, universities, institutes, academies, conservatories and university colleges.

The state higher education sector in Romania comprises 49 state higher education institutions with 324 faculties and other 20 private higher education institutions.

The higher education institutions comprise several faculties, university colleges, divisions, departments and small pilot units specialised in researches and micro-production. The faculty represents the functional basic unit of the higher education institution and is organised by chairs or by departments. The teaching in a faculty is organised by specialities, years of study, student series and groups. The faculty includes the teaching and research personnel, the students and the auxiliary and administrative personnel. The faculties are individualised by their study programmes and field of specialisation.

The department is a sub-unit governed by the university Senate or by the Council of a faculty. The department carries out teaching, research, design etc. The chair is the basic structural unit of the faculty and it includes the teaching research, design and auxiliary personnel working in a specific academic field.

Organization of the year of study

The academic year starts between mid September and mid October, subject to the decision of each University Senate. Based on their institutional autonomy, universities may also decide on the academic schedule. Each year is divided into two semesters. Each semester lasts fourteen weeks. Students have a summer holiday, a Christmas holiday, an Easter holiday and a holiday at the end of the first semester.

Examination take place at the end of each semester. They may be oral or written. A re-examination period is scheduled before the beginning of the new academic year. According to the national standards, the number of hours per week is 22-28, with a decreasing tendency. Classes are held from Monday to Friday.

The Romanian higher education system provides full time courses, evening courses, part time courses and distance learning. The part time and distance learning courses may be provided only by higher education institutions that organize full time courses. The programs of such courses are usually one academic year longer than the full time courses programs.

Undergraduate Education

Undergraduate education provides two types of programmes:

Short-term university education (2-3 year programme provided by the university colleges) courses finalised with diplomã de absolvire (diploma certifying the completion of studies at a college and the passing of a relevant examination). According to the Education Law, graduates of these courses may continue their long-term university education, under the conditions established by each institution.

Long-term university education (4-6 year programmes provided by the universities, academies and conservatories) courses finalised with diplomã de licență (university diploma, equivalent to a first degree).

Duration of studies

The duration of the long term studies varies according to the field :

- 8 semesters ( 4 years) for sciences, humanities, economic and social sciences, law, political sciences, art and sports.
- 10 semesters (5 years) for engineering, pharmacy, agriculture and forestry.
- 12 semesters (6 years) for general medicine, dental medicine, veterinary medicine and architecture.

Graduate Education

Graduate education offers specialisation or an extension of the education provided in universities. Graduate study programmes include:

Advanced studies (1-2 years) for university graduates; graduates are awarded a degree diploma;

Master studies (1-2 years) for university graduates;

Graduate academic studies (2-3 years) organised by graduate study schools attached to universities or functioning as autonomous units; the studies are based on inter-disciplinarity aiming at increased professional specialisation;

Doctoral studies (4-6 years) offered by universities and research institutes accredited as such; the doctoral courses are organised as day courses or night courses. The scientific title of doctor granted by the institution is validated by the National Council for the Attestation of Academic Titles, University Diplomas and Certificates;

Continuing education university courses, lasting no more than one year, and addressed to certain categories of employment of those without a university diploma.

Higher education in Romania has the following forms: regular studies, reduced frequency courses and Open Distance Learning.

Types of Diploma

In what concerns certification, there is a wide range of academic graduate and post-graduate diplomas and distinctions that one can obtain after studying in Romania:

Certificat de studii - A certificate awarded to students who have completed their studies in higher education, but have failed to pass the get their degree.

Diplomă de absolvire a unui colegiu - Diploma certifying the completion of studies at a college and the passing of the relevant final examen.

Diplomă de licență - University diploma equivalent degree.

Diplomă de magister/master - Master Diploma.

Diplomă de studii aprofundate - Diploma of Advanced Studies.

Diplomă de studii (academice) - Diploma of Graduate Academic Studies.

This kind of diploma is awarded by a school of graduate studies, within a higher education institution. Such schools enroll holders of the first academic degree at the end of a two-three year graduate study programme.

Diplomă de doctor - Doctoral Diploma (Ph.D.). This is the highest academic degree awarded in all domains after 4-6 years of study and original research. It follows the first academic degree (or master's degree) and requires the passing of examinations and the submission of an original thesis. The holder of a doctoral diploma is granted the Ph.D. title in the respective field of science or the arts.

Doctor Honoris Causa - An honorary degree awarded by higher education institutions (by vote of the Senate) to Romanian and foreign prominent figures in science, technology and culture. It is also occasionally conferred, in recognition of specific merits, to outstanding national and international public figures.

International Recognition of Romanian Diplomas

Romania signed the Convention on the Recognition of Qualifications concerning Higher Education in the European Region (Lisabona 1997), and at the same time, it is part of the Bologna Process concerning the implementation of the common European Higher Education area.

Through commitments assumed at the European level, focused on quality assurance, credit transfers and transparency of educational programmes description, qualifications (diplomas) obtained in the Romanian Higher Education ensured the academic and professional mobility of the graduates all over the world.

International students have to prove good knowledge of the teaching language (Romanian, English, French or German).

Usually, international students learn Romanian during the preparatory year. The candidates who speak Romanian can skip the preparatory year after having passed a test of Romanian language. The candidates, who can formally prove that they have studied in Romanian for at least four years consecutively, do not need to pass the Romanian language test or to attend the preparatory year.

The following universities organize the preparatory year:

1. "Politehnica" University of Bucharest;
2. University of Bucharest;
3. University of Bacau;
4. "Babes-Bolyai" University of Cluj;

Foreign students, who have begun to study in their home country or in another country, can finish their studies in Romania. This is possible according to each individual case, after the recognition and equivalence of diplomas.

ANNUAL BUDGET

Following are typical budgets for an international student in Romania. The value of the study fees, which is stipulated by the Ministry of Education and Research, is the same for all universities. The fees differ from one domain of specialization to another. The fees for one year of study include the assessed practical experience stipulated in the curricula and the medical assistance, in the same conditions offered to the Romanian students.

The fees should be paid in advance for a period of 10 (ten) month for full time courses and 3 (three) month for part time courses.

Fee quotas in foreign currency, both for full time course and for part time are liable to change.
