Bucharest, May 13-14, 2025

With extensive experience in organizing international scientific events, "Titu Maiorescu" University launched a new scientific challenge in 2013 by initiating the International Conference on Law, European Studies, and International Relations. At its initial editions, over 700 scientific papers were presented by renowned professors, researchers, and PhD students from Romania and abroad. The ten editions of the conference, held in three languages—Romanian, English, and French—welcomed over 50 professors from universities in Spain, Italy, France, Israel, Poland, Bulgaria, Morocco, Germany, and India.

The volumes published during the first eight editions of the conference, produced by Hamangiu Publishing House, were distributed to each participant, distinguished law professors in Romania, and university libraries. These volumes bear ISBN numbers ISBN 978-606-678642-3, ISBN 978-606-27-0020-1, ISBN 978-606-27-0222-9, ISBN 978-606-27-0607-4, ISBN 978-606-27-0879-5, ISBN 978-606-27-1250-1, ISBN 978-606-27-1474-1, ISBN 978606-27-1595-3, and are indexed in BDI databases. The volumes from the last four editions (2021, 2022, 2023, 2024) were published by Universul Juridic Publishing House with ISBN 978-606-39-0912-2, ISSN 2668-0203 and ISSN-L 2668-0203, ISBN 978-606-39-1232-0, ISBN 978-606-39-1398-3, ISBN 978-606-39-1501-7 and are indexed in three international databases: CEEOL HeinOnline and EBSCO.

The International Conference on Law, European Studies, and International Relations aims to bring together scholars from the academic field, researchers, university professors, PhD students, master's students, undergraduates, and, not least, legal practitioners and representatives of legal professions to exchange and share their experiences and research results on various aspects related to legislative reform in light of new national, European, and international trends regarding the proposed theme of the edition, as well as to discuss the practical challenges encountered and the solutions adopted.

Although the primary purpose of regulation is to protect public and private interests, normative excess or, conversely, legislative gaps can lead to confusion, ambiguity, and difficulties in applying the law to various factual situations. In such cases, laws and regulations may become difficult to understand and apply not only for citizens but also for organizations and even authorities.

The conference also highlights the need to rethink the law as an instrument of balance, protecting citizens from risks generated by new technologies while simultaneously encouraging technological progress. We live in an era marked by the rapid advancement of technology, where legislation on data protection, artificial intelligence, or digital rights does not sufficiently cover the practical situations that may arise. Therefore, legal practitioners from all fields are invited to contribute to identifying the problems caused by legislative voids or, on the contrary, by overregulation, and to outline solutions that enable national legislation to keep pace with the changes brought by technological progress. This way, the legal system can evolve in response to these new realities.

In a world where legal systems increasingly intersect, and legal experience undergoes constant transformation, we seek to collectively analyze doctrinal foundations, discover adequate practical solutions, and generate scientific research outcomes through the collaborative energy of this conference — a necessary and perpetual upgrade to respond to diversity and contemporary challenges.

We are convinced that this important scientific event will be one of the most prestigious gatherings on the national legal calendar, with an international impact, providing an opportunity to discuss contemporary issues concerning the universal nature of law while remaining highly relevant to society, economic, cultural, and linguistic environments, and the legal community. The conference aims to highlight new solutions and interpretations that bridge legislative tradition and modern values.

Hoping that the conference theme will stimulate interest in interdisciplinary and thought-provoking areas of research, we invite you to take part in the debate on the mapping of law between legislative gaps, normative excess, and new legal frontiers in the digital age.

The presentation of conference papers will take place in plenary and section sessions.
